

Final Drive For Reduction Of Cotton Acres This Week; Every Farmer Should Sign

The cotton acreage reduction campaign which was started in Coffee County last week as well as in every cotton producing county in the South, will close Saturday night, July 8th, according to agricultural officials. The campaign was scheduled for only one week, but before the week closed leaders saw that it was impossible to carry this campaign to every farmer and so the time was extended to include this week.

National, state and county agricultural leaders are devoting all their time to this campaign, and while they are receiving much cooperation from farmers in every section, there is yet much work to be done to put the campaign over. Every farmer who is producing any cotton should and must cooperate if the proposition is to be made a complete success.

This week county workers are carrying the campaign to every individual farmer, through a house to house canvass. They are meeting with much encouragement, and it is to be hoped that Coffee's quota will be signed up before the week closes. According to reports made Monday night, only about one-half the acreage has been contracted. Farmers who do not desire any acreage contracts in the grand jury room of the court house at Elba. If the best committee has not called on you, come to the courthouse and get one of these contracts. County Agent W. M. Ray issued the following statement Wednesday morning in regard to the campaign:

"Due to the fact that it would be a physical impossibility to finish getting contracts to take out of production the required 10,000,000 acres of cotton before the proposition would be accepted by the Government, the Secretary of Agriculture gave the forces in charge of the campaign until Saturday, July 8th, to complete the job.

"Up until this time (11 o'clock Monday night), we have contracted totaling 7,980 acres, which is just about half the acreage allotted to Coffee County to be taken out of production. The business men and farmers are 99 per cent for this proposition, but that will do very little good unless they sign contracts THIS WEEK, if they have any cotton, and get this job finished before Saturday night.

"The best committee men are working a house to house plan this week, but YOU must go to them in place of them seeking YOU out and begging you to help them put this over if it gets done this week. This is one job that is going to take just about 100 per cent of the farmers to cooperate in. If it is done then it will be the cause of the go of the undertaking and can probably be blamed by all the neighbors this Fall for very cheap cotton.

"This is really and truly a serious proposition and should not be passed up lightly by any one. I feel that the person that is not cooperating in this campaign 9 times out of 10 is the person that has not thought it out and understood the plan thoroughly. It is truly an opportunity of a lifetime for the cotton farmers and I believe practically all cotton farmers realize this. I believe we will get the required acreage this week, but I believe this because I feel that we will get practically every farmer that grows cotton in Coffee County to sign a contract. I appeal to YOU to come on and help put this over. I can only say this: It CAN NOT be done without YOUR help."

2 Small Boys Drown In Lockhart Pond Monday

(Florida News.)
Henry and Walter Metcalf, small sons of Hamp Metcalf, who reside on Poplar Street, were drowned in Lockhart Mill pond late Monday afternoon. Their whereabouts were not known until Wednesday morning, when the bodies were found near the shore on the Florida side of the pond, about 100 yards apart. One of the boys was 13 and the other 10 years of age.

The boys were missed from home late Monday afternoon and when they failed to come home at about 10 o'clock, their father, Mr. Metcalf, started a search which was made for them about Lake Jackson, and extended to the mill pond, where the bodies were recovered about 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

Near the place where the first body was found a long log extended out into the pond, and near it sat their empty can which evidently had been used by them to float. It is thought that they walked out on the log to fish, the log rolled over with them, and they both fell off. Being unable to swim they were immediately drowned.

The children were among the sufferers from the depression.

Farmer And Son Killed By Deputy While Resisting Arrest At Careville Saturday

Hildreth-Carney Battle Of Words Is Holiday Feature

NEW BROCKTON, July 4.—A crowd of about 200 persons attended a benefit barbecue here today and heard Judge J. A. Carney and Senator Ernest Hildreth debate the proposed income tax amendment.

The debate was not a joint debate as there was no violence and the crowd displayed little enthusiasm. Senator Hildreth is a native of Coffee County, although he now lives in Greene County, and Judge Carney has resided in this county practically all of his life.

Judge Carney charged that Hildreth represented the wealthy interest of the State who are fighting the income tax amendment and urged the voters to vote for the tax and let the wealthy share in carrying the tax burden. He also attacked Senator Hildreth for having his wife on the payroll as a clerk in the Legislature.

Sensor Hildreth declared that the crowd urging passage of the income tax amendment had a selfish motive in the campaign and estimated that the Chase National Bank was "interested" because it was the holder of the largest single State obligation. He renewed his attack on Governor Miller, charged that he had failed to back the economy program he advocated while running for Governor.

Sensor Hildreth said he "had no apology to make to anyone" for putting his wife on the State payroll. "The record speaks for itself," he added. "Instead of condemning, he (Gov. Miller) should praise me for it. He has said nothing of the numerous clerks his administration leaders had."

Senator Hildreth said he "had no apology to make to anyone" for putting his wife on the State payroll. "The record speaks for itself," he added. "Instead of condemning, he (Gov. Miller) should praise me for it. He has said nothing of the numerous clerks his administration leaders had."

When Brock was ordered to hand over his gun, the latter snapped the pistol in his face, Tharp reacted, after he pulled his gun and opened fire on the elder Brock, sending four bullets into the latter's chest. As the elder Brock fell to the ground his son picked up the gun and emptied the few remaining bullets in the weapon at him, according to Tharp, who said he then fired once at the younger Brock. The youth was struck in the heart, dying alongside of his father.

A bullet fired by the youth struck the deputy in the thigh, all of the bullets fired by the elder Brock missing Tharp. The deputy stood in his tracks for a few seconds before falling into the arms of witnesses of the double tragedy. Tharp was rushed to a hospital here in an ambulance before the bodies of the two slain men were removed from the main street of Careville. Funeral for the two men was conducted at Bethel Church at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Discussing the shooting today, Deputy Tharp said there was only one thing about the tragedy he regretted. "I hated to kill the boy, as he did only what he or anyone else would have done if it had been his father who was killed," he said.

"When the father of the boy snatched his pistol at me I had to shoot, as it was my only chance," Tharp explained, adding, "Brock fired the first shot."

Sheriff J. T. Harrell, of Washington County, who employed Tharp as a deputy in January, and he investigated the shooting and absolved the affair was a case of self-defense. "Both Brookes were drinking, but the younger Brock was not as drunk as his father," Sheriff Harrell said.

The sheriff said no charges had been made against Tharp but the latter may be placed under arrest and held for a grand jury investigation. Sheriff Harrell said Brock was in Careville looking for another man whom he intended to kill.

LETTER FROM MR. SPURLIN

July 3, 1935.

Dear Editor and Readers:—

Am with my brother, Willie, at our old home place, Come Saturday, July 1st, to a family reunion known as the Spurlin reunion. Ten of the fourteen brothers and sisters were present. There were sixteen in all, nine boys and seven girls, but two of the girls were in infancy. Of the fourteen, the youngest was eight and the oldest 64 on December 21. We have been wonderfully happy in the reunion, and it is a long time since I have been so happy.

The number of pigs saved in the United States during the Spring of 1935 was 3 per cent greater than the corresponding period in 1934, but less than the corresponding period in 1933, he said. "The pig crop this year was practically the same as the average of the five years, 1925 to 1932 inclusive," he said. "The number of pigs saved in the United States are estimated at 5 per cent over last fall's saving."

The drought has been broken and farmers are looking much better. But farmers are beginning to fear that too much rain now will cause the boll weevil to ruin cotton. The difference in them and the government destroying it is that the government would not let the weevil take it without permission, and the government with permission takes it.

THE ELBA CLIPPER

July 3, 1935.

Dear Editor and Readers:—

Am with my brother, Willie, at our old home place, Come Saturday, July 1st, to a family reunion known as the Spurlin reunion. Ten of the fourteen brothers and sisters were present. There were sixteen in all, nine boys and seven girls, but two of the girls were in infancy. Of the fourteen, the youngest was eight and the oldest 64 on December 21. We have been wonderfully happy in the reunion, and it is a long time since I have been so happy.

The number of pigs saved in the United States during the Spring of 1935 was 3 per cent greater than the corresponding period in 1934, but less than the corresponding period in 1933, he said. "The pig crop this year was practically the same as the average of the five years, 1925 to 1932 inclusive," he said. "The number of pigs saved in the United States are estimated at 5 per cent over last fall's saving."

The drought has been broken and farmers are looking much better. But farmers are beginning to fear that too much rain now will cause the boll weevil to ruin cotton. The difference in them and the government destroying it is that the government would not let the weevil take it without permission, and the government with permission takes it.
